

Plumbing Technical Exhibitions guideline on health and safety/rules and regulations.

PTE aims to ensure that every exhibitor has a safe and successful show as well as visitors attending.

Therefore, we have provided several safety and security points for you to consider.

Please note that if any of the following points is violated or not adhered to by an exhibitor, that exhibitor could be asked to leave by venue security or PTE's operations manager. We adopt the same ZERO TOLERANCE for unsafe practices as the venue does and as called up in the OSH Act.

In all cases the exhibitor is responsible for the insurance of their own goods

Safety requirements

- No unprotected equipment, which can cause fire or injury to individuals, groups or the environment, should be displayed.
- Do not stand under loads suspended from cranes or forklifts.
- Do not work with heavy equipment without the correct personal protective equipment.
- All displays must be firmly fixed.
- Only Prestik and double-sided tape (not industrial) may be used on the white boards. Any damage to the boards will be charged to your company's account.
- Please note that PTE is not responsible for any lost or damaged equipment.
- Please take note of the safety signs at the venue and adhere to them.
- All demonstrations must be done with the necessary protection and with the approval of PTE's operations manager. A Certificate of Compliance must be signed.
- A first aid kit is available from the organisers, but each exhibitor should have their own first aid kit to handle smaller injuries. The PTE staff is trained in administering first aid, but it is up to the individual to keep themselves and those around them safe.
- In the event of an emergency, please leave your stand and move to the emergency points. Lives are more important than equipment.
- Please keep your belongings safe.
- Ensure all vehicles are roadworthy and licensed. The venue reserves the right to deny entry to any vehicle or individual.
- No vehicles may be parked in front of the exhibits or where they will impede the entrance or exit during the hours of the exhibition. If the PTE staff requests that you move your vehicle, please do so immediately.
- No alcohol or drugs are permitted on the property. PTE accepts no responsibility if the venue enforces club or legislative rules regarding alcohol on their premises.
